A 10-YEAR-OLD boy was grabbed near a doctors' surgery in Haverhill yesterday.

The assault happened in Greenfields Way, shortly before the police were called at around 4.10pm.

The boy had run home to report that a man had run up behind him, grabbed his back and tried to pull his trousers down.

Suffolk police said the youngster had been close to the doctors' surgery when he was grabbed and are asking anyone who was in the area between 3.15pm and 4.30pm to come forward.

A police cordon was still in place this morning around a footpath on Greenfields Way while officers carried out an investigation.

Howard Lay, chief executive of Samuel Ward Academy Trust, said: "We are aware of an incident at Greenfields Way on Wednesday night and we have sent out a message to all our schools in the town informing them.

"We will be working closely with police to support their enquiries."

The man is described as black, possibly in his 30s or 40s, of average build and wearing a dark coat and jeans.

Officers would like to talk to anyone who was there, regardless of whether they think they saw anything or not, and would also like to speak to anyone who may have seen a man meeting the description in the area around that time, or anyone with information about who he is.

If you can help, call West Suffolk CID by dialling 101, quoting CAD number 314 of Wednesday, May 17.

This is the fourth time this year a child has been approached in Haverhill.

In February two 12 year-old boys and two 13-year-old girls reported being followed by a man on their way to school in consecutive days.

Back in April, a young girl also reported that a person followed her home from school while she was walking down Chalkstone Way in Haverhill.

Rail campaigners take cause to city

RAIL Haverhill took its campaign to Cambridge on Saturday.

The team set up a stall
in Cambridge's Market

54 signatures for their petition to bring back a

Heike Sowa,

"All-in-all many people

TRANSPORT

Mayor to help 'sort out' A1307

JOSH THOMAS

@JoshThomasCN

CAMBRIDGESHIRE'S new mayor would work across county borders to upgrade the A1307 to Haverhill, which he admits "should have happened years ago".

Despite this, improvement
work on the major route linking Haverhill with Cambridge does not feature in Mayor James Palmer's list of priorities for his first 100 days in office, which he outlined at a meeting in Cambridge on May 11.

Speaking at the Amazon development centre, Mayor Palmer, the newly-elected mayor of the Cambridgeshire and Peterborough combined authority, said improving the road was not on his list of immediate priorities for his first 100 days in office, but admitted the route was a "problem" that needed sorting out.

Mayor Palmer said: "It may be something that Suffolk can bring to me. Colin Noble (leader of Suffolk County Council) I know very well and I have an excellent working relationship with him.

If necessary, we will work across boundaries with any authority.

"I want councils to bring me schemes. Improving the A1307 should have happened years ago and I know that as much as anyone else.
We know what should have happened, and we want to get all these problems sorted out."

Haverhill councillors have welcomed the different authorities' commitment to working together, saying an improved A1307 would be a boost for both Cambridge and Haverhill. Cllr Tony Brown said that any long-term project should not detract from efforts to improve safety in the short term.

He said: "It is a long-neglected corridor that has a huge impact, not just on Haverhill, but on Cambridge as well. People from Haverhill service Babraham and Addenbrooke's. I believe it is one of the most important corridors into Cambridge.

"We need to make sure any safety improvements are not put on the back-burner. It is great they are pushing for a dual-carriageway but, with the best will in the world, that could be 10-15 years in the future. A twin-track approach is needed to look at a long-term solution, but also to improve safety now."

Colin Noble, leader of Suffolk County Council, welcomed Mayor Palmer's willingness to collaborate, saying improving the A1307
was "vital" for Haverhill's development.

He said: "Haverhill is one of our priorities and we want to see the town grow and for it to grow economically.
We know the link with Cambridge is vital for Haverhill.
I understand it is not one of his priorities. This is a long-term project."

Cllr Noble said Mayor Palmer would be invited to participate in the council's steering group for Haverhill.

CRIME

Antiques business is raided for seventh time in six years

RAM-RAID: The scene at Clare Antiques and Interiors after criminals struck

RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@rach_mc94CN

THOUSANDS of pounds worth of jewellery has been stolen and cabinets smashed during a ram-raid in Clare.

The raid, which happened at 4.50am on Tuesday, was the third time Clare Antiques and Interiors has been targeted by thieves in the last 18 months and the seventh break-in in six years.

Two men, dressed in black, drove a black Jeep through the front of the antique store in Malting Lane, stealing expensive rings and other jewellery.

Chris Marchant, who owns the business, said: "They smashed the door again, they punched the reinforced lock."

"They smashed up the reinforced doors and smashed the cabinets containing the expensive jewellery and left the place in a mess, really, it's all over the floor."

Mr Marchant said it was "getting almost impossible" to see how to stop the thieves who keep targeting the centre.

In December, 2016, burglars took at least £15,000 worth of jewellery and caused thousands of pounds damage.

The same cabinet had been targeted just a year earlier in December 2015.

Since then Mr Marchant has installed a state-of-the-art reinforced alarm system and changed cameras.

He said: "If you were to come up to the door at night time and reach your hand out at the shutters the alarms would go off. It's a case of they totally ignored everything."

Mr Marchant said he was not hopeful about recovering the stolen jewellery since attempts had been unsuccessful after past break-ins.

He added: "Do I feel like saving the biggest draw into Clare? No I don't at this moment in time."

The Jeep was driven off towards Stoke-by-Clare after the raid.

Police are considering whether the crime may be linked to an attempted burglary in Glemsford around 4.25am on Monday.

In Hunters Hill, a 4x4 was driven at a store causing damage to a window and a bollard but the raiders failed to get into the store.

Anyone with information about the burglary in Clare should contact Suffolk Police on 101 quoting reference number 35321/17.

Mayor stays in post for second year

THE Mayor of Haverhill, David Roach, will stay in the position for another year after a unanimous vote at the annual Haverhill Town Council meeting.

Cllr John Burns nominated Cllr Roach for a second term saying: "Thank you for your year as mayor. Unfortunately you were good but not that good, so I'm going to have to nominate you for a second year as mayor."

Joking after the meeting about why he was keen to carry on for another year, Cllr Roach said: "Well no-one else volunteered."

About his role as mayor he said: "Being the mayor gives you a huge window into the fabric of the community that you serve. You see what goes on below the surface of your town."

He added: "I hope that the role of the mayor helps a little with some recognition of what goes on, and offers some support and help to bring people together."

Working alongside Cllr Roach will be new deputy mayor Tony Brown, who was also voted in unanimously.

COMMUNITY

Students to run stalls on market

PUPILS from Castle Manor Academy in Haverhill are teaming up with St Edmundsbury Borough Council to host a community market.

Students have made a range of products to sell on the Market Square on Saturday.

The community market is being held to coincide with 'love your local market' fortnight May 17 - May 31.

Year 10 students have helped to plan and design publicity for the event and have been mentoring younger students from Years 7 to 9 to run the market stalls.

Castle Manor teacher Becky Baldwin said: "Our aim is to share our skills with the community and bring families together."

She added: "As a school we are keen to teach our students life skills and they have been learning about the role of the market co-ordinator, what a day on the market looks like, how to purchase, display stock and all about profits margins."

The event, which has a food and farming theme, will feature stalls from other schools and charity groups as well as a mini farm and children's activities and is open from 9am to 3pm.

The 'love your local market' campaign hopes to encourage more people to buy locally and engage young people and families in the social aspect of the market.

Vehicles targeted by vandals

VANDALS damaged a car and van in Haverhill in two separate incidents.

A white Renault van had its wing mirrors snapped off, the windscreen wipers bent and the number plates removed between May 7 and 8 in Connaught Road.

Between May 7 and 9 a green Peugeot 406 was targeted at Argyll Court.

All four tyres were deflated and the wing mirrors were also damaged.

In another incident, a wall was partially smashed by vandals in Elmdon Place.

Between noon and 4.20pm on May 8 bricks were pulled from the top section of the wall and smashed on the ground, causing hundreds of pounds of damage according to the owner.

Anyone who has information on any of these incidents should call Suffolk Police on 101.

Relief as council steps in to save Corn Exchange

RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@rach_mc94CN

EMERGENCY steps have been taken to save Haverhill's crumbling Corn Exchange from falling into further disrepair.

St Edmundsbury Borough Council has served a legal notice on the building's owner detailing repairs that need to be carried out.

The urgent works notice gives the owner seven days to agree to undertake the repairs before the council carries out the work itself, recovering costs when the building is sold.

Christine Leveson, principal conservation officer at St Edmundsbury Borough Council, said: "This building is an important part of the history of Haverhill and a well-known local landmark."

"Unfortunately, the sale of the building has been very slow and meanwhile the building is continuing to suffer. The council is therefore preparing to use its powers to get the building weather-tight and secure until such time as it is sold."

Haverhill town councillor Tony Brown said: "It's a great move. It's something we've been trying to get for nearly four years, some sort of order for the repairs to be undertaken. It has been a bit of a battle to get this done, I'm really happy the borough managed to serve a notice on the owner."

The Corn Exchange, which lies within a conservation area on Withersfield Road, has been on the market for several years. A private buyer and the town council have put in bids to buy the Grade II listed property from the owner, but have yet to hear which bid has been successful.

Colin Poole, clerk of Haverhill Town Council, said: "The town council welcomes this decisive action by the borough following months of stalemate with the owners. The town council remains committed to the proposal to purchase this building once the vendor is in a position to sell."

FRESH HOPE: The crumbling Corn Exchange is at the centre of a legal move by the borough council to save the building from falling into further disrepair

GENERAL ELECTION

Meet the candidates seeking your vote

PARLIAMENTARY candidates in West Suffolk for Britain's snap General Election have given reasons why you should vote for them in June.

Theresa May made the surprise announcement outside Downing Street on April 18, despite saying that she would not call an early election.

She blamed other parties' opposition to her plans for Brexit for her decision.

The election will take place on June 8 between 7am and 10pm. If you are not on the electoral roll, you must register to vote by 11.59pm on Monday, May 22.

To register, visit www.gov.uk/register-to-vote
Find out where your polling stations are by visiting www.westsuffolk.gov.uk

Michael Jefferys (Labour)

I HAVE lived in West Suffolk for nearly all of my adult life and feel that I can properly represent the people who live in this beautiful part of the world, with its heathland, with its forest and the rolling green countryside.

This is such an important election, not just to decide the nature of our relationship with the rest of Europe, but also about fundamental issues such as the NHS and education. Another five years of Conservative government and I fear that our NHS will be unrecognisable. We must address the real problems of climate change. We need a government that will protect our precious environment; our green and pleasant land.

After seven long and miserable years of Tory broken promises on wages, the deficit, NHS, our schools and our environment, they cannot be trusted. We need a Labour government that would build a country for the many, not the few. Instead of a country run for the rich, we can create a Britain where all of us lead richer lives: creating educational opportunity for all, guaranteeing the health and social care services we need, providing safer neighbourhoods and building homes people can afford.

Julian Flood (UKIP)

THIS is going to sound strange but we live in politically strange times.

The recent county elections show that people are worried about coming EU negotiations, and they voted Tory to demonstrate that the UK is behind Theresa May. Lib Dems, Green and Labour are anti-Brexit and a vote for them would send her weakened into our most important political battle for 50 years. A Brexit candidate elected in West Suffolk will strengthen her position.

A year ago Matthew Hancock was an Osborne Remainder groupie as Tories slashed budgets and told lies. He tweeted "For a tolerant Britain vote Remain #StrongerIn". He defended Cameron's suborning of the Civil Service. He defended Project Fear. Matthew's record is as a Remain apologist. He'll weaken Mrs May's fight versus the EU.

Matt Hancock (Conservative)

SINCE being first elected MP in 2010, I have worked hard for West Suffolk, as well as nationally in a number of Ministerial roles.

In West Suffolk I have been instrumental in making changes to improve life for my constituents. Through diligence and effective campaigning, the A11 has been significantly improved, attracting investment to the area and with it jobs and a thriving local economy.

During my time as an MP, unemployment has fallen sharply and has brought improved living standards for residents who have been able to get the new jobs available.

I live locally in Thurlow and always listen to the issues that concern local residents, and hold regular surgeries and public meetings.

One of the most important issues raised of course is Brexit. West Suffolk was an area that came out strongly for Brexit and I, under the leadership of Theresa May, will now push to deliver the best outcome for Britain as it leaves the European Union. There is no issue greater to the people at this time – Brexit must be delivered in a way that ensures the best deal for the UK, and that can be done only with the strong and stable government of Theresa May and the Conservatives.

Donald Allwright (Green)

ARE you fed up with politics right now? Me too. Our country has become increasingly divided over recent decades, and millions of people left out from the public discourse.

Some feel that their vote doesn't count because they live in a safe-seat constituency, so don't bother to vote. Others struggle to find affordable housing. Many more feel that the current direction of the nation leaves them disaffected and uncertain about their place in society, whilst still others go about their lives feeling worn down by issues such as traffic congestion and air pollution. Even more worry about their health, and whether the NHS will still be around when they need it.

I aim to provide a voice to all these groups of people in West Suffolk. Everyone deserves to live in a resilient and confident society where difference doesn't mean division. That means an efficient transport system, including public transport that provides service over profit. It means electoral reform, with a fairer voting system that includes the 16 and 17 year olds who are our future. It means sustainable housing to eliminate fuel poverty, and with easy access to public transport. It means adequate funding for the NHS. Above all, it means different groups in society can work together without feeling that politics favours one group over another.

I am 46 years old, have a family and live in Haverhill. A vote for me is a vote for a better future for all.

Elfreda Tealby-Watson (LibDem)

A LONGSTANDING campaigner from East Anglia, I live between Newmarket and Haverhill.

I have been both parish and district councillor and contested West Suffolk in 2015.

I am self-employed in property investment, am married with two daughters and formerly cared for my mother suffering dementia.

As a result I have first-hand experience of the need for strong public services, especially in education and health. Alongside my professional life, I have volunteered as a women's hostel fundraiser, trustee of a children's charity and as school governor. I went to comprehensive school and studied history at Queens' College, Cambridge. Voting Liberal Democrat sends a message supporting an open, tolerant and united society.

A strong Liberal Democrat opposition will challenge the government to achieve that. We want state surveillance powers on private communications reduced; more on-the-beat policing would be better for security. We say taxes are needed to fund the NHS – for mental and physical health. We want the British people to have a say on whether the Brexit deal is right for them. Voting Liberal Democrat is to vote against hard Brexit and to protect peace, prosperity and the future prospects of our young people.

Out-of-date baby milk angers mum

RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@rach_mc94CN

A MUM-OF-THREE was left horrified after being sold formula milk for her newborn that was six months out of date.

Francesca Leegood, from Depden, near Wickham-brook, bought the milk at the Tesco superstore in Haverhill following a day out in the town with her family.

Francesca's son, Leighton, was just two days old when she first fed him the out-of-date Aptamil Profutura milk on April 11.

Francesca, 31, said: "When you have a screaming, hungry baby you just grab what's there. I had no sterilised bottles with me."

The formula, that went out of date on October 27, 2016, was the last one on the shelf.

To Francesca's horror it wasn't until last week, after she had already fed her son twice from the pack, that she noticed the milk was six months out of date.

CONCERNED: Francesca Leegood with Leighton

A Tesco spokesperson said: "We are sorry that on this occasion we did not meet our own high standards and on being made aware of the news, carried out a full date check on similar products in the store."

"We have apologised to the customer for the error and have offered a full refund and gesture of goodwill."

Francesca said: "We are more resilient but a baby, to have something that far out of date must be bad."

"It's safe to say I feel let down by them."

"I was really worried and angry as well. It's my responsibility to make sure he's OK. I felt I'd let him down by giving him it."

After having the milk, Leighton was ill but Francesca admits she has no way to know for sure it was a result of drinking the milk.

She said: "He was quite sick. I can't blame it solely on that [the milk]."

Francesca also praised staff at the Haverhill store for being "very helpful" when she took the milk back.

Great gran Rose tells of 'awful abseil nightmare'

JASMINE WATKISS

@Jasmine_Watkiss

A GREAT-GRANDMOTHER faced her worst fear by completing an abseil she never meant to sign up for – and said it was “a complete nightmare”.

When Rose Felloni, from Haverhill, tried to sign up to ride the helter skelter at the London Olympic Park, she was in fact looking at the previous year's event, and found herself enrolled on what would prove to be a terrifying abseil down the ArcelorMittal Orbit, Britain's largest piece of public art.

She was so afraid prior to the event, she said she would do it blindfolded so she wouldn't have to see how high up she was.

The 71-year-old successfully abseiled down the 114.5m tall metal sculpture on Saturday – but hated every second.

Having had her feet firmly on the ground for just five minutes, Rose said: “It was just awful, I have never been so frightened in my life.”

“My legs froze, and I couldn't let go of the top.”

“They had us abseil down in pairs. The girl I went with started the descent first, but I was the first down – I hurried down that thing as fast as my little arms would let me.

“It was a complete nightmare, but once you've committed you've got to go through with it.”

When asked if she would consider abseiling again, Rose said: “No, no, no! I will not be doing that again.”

“I'm sat with my back to it now, just so I don't have to look at it.”

Rose said: “I haven't got a huge amount of time left in life, and I am determined to live it abseil-free.”

Rose signed up to the accidental

ABSEILING GRAN: Rose Felloni said she would never do it again.

abseil to fundraise for the Prader-Willi Syndrome Association, after her daughter, Deena, died in 2005 from the effects of the condition.

Prader-Willi Syndrome is a genetic condition which prevents the brain from registering when a person is full and leads to a feeling of perpetual hunger.

Rose is hoping to raise £800 from the event for the association.

She said she wanted to raise funds to help other families affected by the condition who could feel isolated.

Money would also go towards research being carried out at Cambridge University into Prader-Willi Syndrome.

Donations can be made to www.gofundme.com/fund-my-tenna-lady-supplies named after her concerns about making the descent.

HEALTH

Service expands to meet growing number wanting benefits advice

A GROWING number of cancer patients at Addenbrooke's Hospital are seeking welfare benefits advice.

The Macmillan welfare advice service at the hospital is now doubling its opening hours to support those in financial distress.

Research by the charity and the University of Bristol Personal Finance Research Centre has revealed that cancer costs patients an average of £570 a month through lost income, hospital travel costs, increased heating bills and parking charges.

The Suffolk Macmillan Welfare Rights Advice Service launched at Addenbrooke's last September as a new partnership between Macmillan and Suffolk County Council.

A service adviser visits the hospital every Wednesday to offer free and confidential support to patients and their families and will now also attend on Thursdays.

The charity says that in the first four months of the service it supported 61 people.

TOM PILGRIM

@TomPilgrimCN

By the end of March this had risen to 117 people.

Cathy Cunningham-Elliott, Macmillan Benefits Advice Service manager at Suffolk County Council, said: "We've recognised there's a real need for specialist welfare benefits advice at Addenbrooke's."

"Our advisers are making a huge difference to the people they see but we need to go further to help the growing numbers coming to us for support. We'll be extending our opening hours so we can attend the hospital on Thursdays too."

Between September and the end of March, the service helped people access more than £3,000 in Macmillan Grants and £250,000 in ongoing benefit gains.

"People underestimate the financial impact of cancer," Ms Cunningham-Elliott added. "Our work shows that often they don't understand or aren't aware of the range of financial support that could be available to them.

"Lots of people may not have had previous interaction with the benefits system so we let them know what they're entitled to."

The service recently achieved the Advice Quality Standard (AQS), a mark of quality for independent advice organisations.

Wendy Bailey, Macmillan's service project manager, said: "The award is a fantastic endorsement of the service and the people delivering it here at Addenbrooke's. It highlights that we're reaching people at the right time in the right place to minimise their financial stress."

"By sending an adviser to the hospital twice a week, we can now provide even more people affected by cancer in our community."

When tweets become "twibels"

Michael Frape, a Partner at Ashtons Legal, offers some advice from a legal perspective.

Every business using social media should get to grips with publishing law and advertising regulations if they are to avoid reputation-damaging incidents.

The reminder follows the news that columnist Katie Hopkins was recently refused leave to appeal against a recent High Court libel verdict, where she was found to have published defamatory Tweets, or what's been coined a 'Twibel'.

Anyone using social media is a publisher, putting information out into the public domain, but unlike newspapers and book publishers, most businesses don't have a good understanding of publishing law and how to avoid breaching it. Similarly, many businesses are not considering how their social media posts may breach advertising regulations, as the boundaries between paid-for advertising and other forms of communication become more blurred.

For Katie Hopkins, the Tweets she posted that were found to be defamatory implied that prominent poverty campaigner and writer Jack Monroe had defaced a war memorial, in a case of mistaken identity. Monroe offered her the chance to apologise publicly or face legal action, but Hopkins refused. When the case reached the High Court, the Tweets were found to have caused 'serious' harm to Monroe's reputation and Hopkins was ordered to pay damages of £24,000. In addition to that and of far greater concern to Hopkins will have been being ordered to pay Monroe's legal costs, which are thought to be a six figure sum.

In deciding the case, the court had to determine whether the tweets met the requirement for harm that is set out in the Defamation Act 2013. Experts say the ruling is the most important case to date involving libel on social media.

"Controlling social media content is a huge issue for business," says Michael Frape, "Staff could learn from the 26-point guide on how to use Twitter, published by the High Court as an appendix to its official ruling in the Hopkins case, which provides a summary of how the platform works. It makes for useful reading, even for those who think themselves experts, as a reminder of who will receive postings when tweeting, re-tweeting or replying."

Westminster tours set to encourage younger voter

JASMINE WATKISS

@Jasmine_Watkiss

THE government is offering all UK young voters a free tour of the Houses of Parliament, to encourage young adults to register, vote and participate in the democratic process.

Up until polling day on June 8, visitors aged 18 to 24 will be able to set foot inside the House of Commons, the House of Lords and Westminster Hall and see inside debating chambers and voting lobbies.

At the end of the tour, Parliament will invite visitors to the pop-up electoral registration centre in Westminster Hall where they can register to vote if they haven't already done so.

The Houses of Parliament will remain open to visitors until the general election on June 8.

David Natzler, Clerk of the House of Commons, said: "We are delighted to wel-

DEMOCRACY: Young voters are invited to the Houses of Parliament in a bid to encourage voting come 18 to 24-year-olds on free tours of Parliament in the lead up to the general election.

"We hope young people from all over the UK will take this opportunity to visit Parliament and play their part in the democratic process as a result."

To ensure as many young voters as possible take the opportunity to visit Parliament, eight additional tour dates have been added in May.

A ticket is still required and proof of age will be requested on entry.

Tours are available on the following days:

Today, tomorrow and Saturday and Wednesday to Saturday between May 25 and June 3.

The Houses of Parliament is also taking part in the first ever London History Day on Wednesday, May 31, with a range of tours and events.

Book online at www.parliament.uk/visit, by calling (0)20 7219 4114, or in person at the ticket office at the front of Portcullis House on Victoria Embankment.

Life-saving equipment installed

HAVERHILL Community First Responders have installed another life-saving community public access defibrillator (cPAD) in the town.

The new defib was installed outside the Clements doctors' surgery in Greenfields Way last week and is the fourth in the town.

Community First Responder (CFR), Keith Jesson, said: "It is our aim to install 10 cPADs in Haverhill, Kedington and the surrounding villages; so our fundraising continues. The use of an automated external defibrillator within the first few minutes of a cardiac arrest greatly improves a patient's chance of survival and this is why these cPAD's are so important."

"We would like to thank all those who donated so generously and for believing in the work that CFRs do. We rely solely on public donations and without them we would not be able to continue in this life-saving role."

Part of the funding for the new cPAD outside the Clements surgery came from Haverhill town councillor Jason Crooks.

Another cPAD was installed outside the Kedington doctors' surgery.

Latest news and events from CENTRE Stage's production of everyone's favourite Dickensian musical about orphans who come good, Oliver!, is being staged at Haverhill Arts Centre next week.

Re-live the story of the good boy who gets mixed up in the bad-boy world of Bill Sykes and his slightly less bad cohorts, Dodger and Fagin. Consider Yourself one of the (Centre Stage) family from Tuesday, May 23, to Saturday, May 27, as Haverhill's finest players perform all the favourites with vim, vigour and an extra big dose of Oompa Pa Pa.

■ Wednesday, May 31, sees the Royal Shakespeare Company's (recorded) broadcast of Antony & Cleopatra.

Following Caesar's assassination, Mark Antony has reached the heights of power. But he hasn't kept his eyes on the prize and has been distracted by a life of decadent seduction with his mistress Cleopatra. Silly boy.

Josette Simon plays Cleopatra (minus the severe wig and eyeliner). Antony Byrne is Antony and Iqbal Khan, who also directed Much Ado About Nothing and Othello for the Royal Shakespeare Company, is director.

■ Moving on to half term the arts centre has Jack and the Beans Talk – no, that is not a misprint. Inspired by the classic fairy tale, this is a fresh and funny show children's show complete with an enormous beanstalk, bags of gold and a smelly old giant.

It is created by Garlic Theatre which brought such shows to the arts centre as Shoe Kangaroo and There's a Monster in my Piano.

■ Half term cinema includes Beauty and the Beast (12) in which a beauty learns to love a beast and then is rewarded by the beast's outsides resembling his insides (Friday, May 19, and Friday, June 2), The Boss Baby (U) in which a briefcase-wielding baby takes charge and probably gives himself a massive pay-rise (Tuesday, May 30) and Peppa Pig: My First Cinema Experience (U) during which adult viewers might go mad but decide it is worth it to make their small charges happy (Friday, June 2).

■ If children's cinema doesn't float your boat, go and see A Quiet Passion 12A (Tuesday, May 30, and again Monday, June 5) the biopic of the American poet Emily Dickinson directed by Terence Davies. Cynthia Nixon, who you may recognise from her turn in Sex and the City, evokes Dickinson's manners, mores and spiritual convictions and how they transcended to her poetry. On Thursday, June 1, the arts centre has The Hippopotamus (15), the film version of Stephen Fry's book about a disgraced theatre critic/poet who investigates the mystery of miracle healings in a country house. The film is followed by a live satellite link-up to a Q&A session with Stephen Fry.

■ Coming soon to the arts centre is the return of the comedian Mark Thomas (June 8). In his latest show, which is still a work in progress, Mark sets out to discover what the future has in store for us. As this takes place on Election Day, Mark won't necessarily need a crystal ball! Following Mark, psychic and medium Marcus Day takes to the stage (Friday, June 9) and following Marcus the arts centre has three boys who have made their mothers proud, Blake Singing Songs of Stage and Screen on Saturday, June 11.

Friday, June 19, 6pm, Beauty and the Beast (PG) Tuesday, May 23, to Saturday, May 27, 7.30pm + 2.30pm on Saturday, Oliver!

Tuesday, May 30, 2.30pm, The Boss Baby (U)

Tuesday, May 30, 7.30pm, A Quiet Passion (12A)

Wednesday, May 31, 7pm, Antony & Cleopatra

Thursday, June 1, 11am, Jack and the Beans Talk

Thursday, June 1, 7.30pm, The Hippopotamus + satellite Q&A with Stephen Fry

Friday, June 2, 10.30am, Peppa Pig: My First Cinema Experience (U)

Friday, June 2, 2.30pm, Beauty and the Beast (PG)

Nissan's new LEAF

NISSAN has introduced a LEAF Black Edition to its line-up of the world's biggest selling electric motor.

Based on the Acenta grade of LEAF, its features include 16-inch black alloy wheels, LED headlamps, black door mirror caps and black rear roof spoiler.

In addition, the Black Edition has blue-stitched mats to give the interior a premium finish.

It also comes equipped with Nissan's latest technology as standard with each model, including the NissanConnect EV telematics system and intelligent around view monitor.

It's on sale now and is priced from £26,890 including the £4,500 government plug-in vehicle grant.

The limited edition model is a restricted production run up until August, 2017, with the first 200 customers receiving a free Wi-Fi hotspot – capable of pairing with up to eight devices.

Because of its electric drivetrain the LEAF offers instantaneous torque when accelerating, has a zero emission range of more than 150 miles and has a chassis engineered specifically for UK drivers.

The car is built at the Nissan factory in Sunderland and is the world's best selling electric car with more than 250,000 on the road globally.

BACK TO BLACK: The LEAF Black Edition

Car insurance costs to rise

DRIVERS have three weeks to go before Insurance Premium Tax rises yet again, from 10 per cent to 12 per cent.

Amanda Stretton, former racing driver and motoring editor at Confused.com, discusses how this will impact car insurance prices:

"All new car insurance policies and renewals from June 1 could see the 2 per cent rise in Insurance Premium Tax add an average of £16 to drivers' annual car insurance costs. This will likely increase the average premium to £797 from £781 (Confused.com's car insurance price index).

"It's easy to see why drivers are so upset about yet another IPT rate rise since it has doubled in the last 18 months. There are many factors influencing the rise in car insurance prices but, to put the IPT rate rise into context, the average premium was £629 in October 2015 when IPT was just 6 per cent.

"And with drivers having to bear the additional brunt of recent changes to the Ogden tax, we expect average insurance premiums will be on course to hit £1,000 by the end of next year."

New Range Rover to celebrate milestone

LAND Rover has announced a new landmark edition of its Range Rover Evoque model to mark the building of 6,000 units in the six years since its introduction.

Demand is still increasing for the pioneering luxury compact SUV that delivers critically-acclaimed design, desirability and all-terrain capability to the segment it created in 2011.

Six years after going on sale, sales reached an all-time high for a single month both globally and in the UK. The UK registered a record 6,781 Evoques in March 2017 and almost 18,000 Evoques were sold globally.

Priced from £39,000, the Landmark Evoque makes its global debut at this week's Royal Windsor Horse Show, when orders will open.

Jeremy Hicks, managing director, Jaguar Land Rover UK says: "The Evoque has been an indisputable success. It's our biggest selling model in the UK and continues to thrive six years after launch, it's a fantastic achievement and worthy of celebration. The Landmark edition has new dynamic detailing and a distinctive aesthetic which takes its design credentials to an even higher level – it looks fantastic and we know customers will love it."

Figures show rise in drink-drive collisions

ROAD SAFETY and breakdown organisation GEM Motoring Assist is urging motorists to steer clear of alcohol before journeys this summer. The call comes as new government figures show drink-drive collisions are on the rise.

May 10 marked the 50th anniversary of the introduction of an alcohol limit for drivers. Provisional figures from the Department for Transport suggest that 1,380 people were killed or seriously injured in collisions where at least one driver was over the limit – an increase of five per cent. There has also been a three per cent increase in drink-drive casualties of all severities, with an estimate of 8,480.

"Too many people lose their lives or suffer serious injuries because someone else chose to drive after drinking. If you suspect a colleague, friend or neighbour is drink-driving, report your concerns to the police, or contact Crimestoppers (0800 555 111, crimestoppers-uk.org), anonymously."

E-zy rider – new electric bike hits the street

THE election of the Mayor of Cambridgeshire and Peterborough generated some lively campaigning, not least from the independent candidate, local businessman Peter Dawe.

Although the political race is run it's clear that Mr Dawe has a deep interest in and commitment to the region and is intent on developing the social enterprise themes explored during his campaign. Ongoing projects include the launch of the Cambridge Electric Transport Company, which is preparing to retail a range of Peter's Pedals electric bikes.

The first eBike in the range is a £700 budget option.

The practical details are straightforward: the eBike has a 250W brushless rear motor and is powered by a lithium battery which takes four hours to charge (closer to six if it needs a 100 per cent recharge). It has a 35-mile range with a top speed of 16mph. There's built-in front and rear LED lights which you activate

PEDAL POWER: A new eBike is to be launched by a Cambridge company via push-buttons on an LED display panel on the left handlebar. The panel shows which of three speed modes you're in and how much battery power you have left.

Each speed mode affects your range – in 'High' mode you're going to run the battery down faster than in the middle mode, and much more quickly than in eco/low mode, so that 35-mile range would come down to something closer to 20 miles if you stay in top gear. This more rapid battery drain incentivises you to plan your mileage and journey times carefully. If you're in a hurry, the charge goes down much faster, so it's not a bad idea to factor in extra time so you can travel further more slowly. And why not, if you have time to enjoy the view...?

Looks-wise the eBike is smart and functional. The saddle is comfortable and all the instrumentation is easy to use, even in the dark. It's hard not to feel familiar with the set-up even after a couple of hours, and it's easy to ride and control.

In terms of effort, you don't have to actually push – you turn the wheels to keep the electric power in play, but you don't need much muscle power to turn the pedals. If you do pedal as per a conventional bike your legs meet minimal resistance, akin to what pedalling is like when the chain comes off. This inertia is peculiar to start with but, with familiarity, makes eBike cycling rather graceful, except when you're setting off. It takes a second for the electric power to kick in, so you're working the pedals and for a moment there's no response, then the motor kicks in and you're away.

The eBike is suitable for all ages, though at 25kg needs a bit of oomph to lift, but the rack above the rear wheel helps to lift it over kerbs, and the stand makes it easy to park up. It's simple to get the battery pack out and put it back. The charging-up process is very straightforward. There's nothing here likely to go wrong and the Chinese OEM has made it as easy as possible to operate and run.

As cycleway networks expand and links between villages and city are enhanced, electric cycles offer excellent value for money while ensuring that trips to and from the workplace mean never having to break sweat. The eBike qualifies for the government-backed Cycle to Work scheme for employees.

But regardless of whether you're a business or a private user, the eBike has considerable merit and marks a new and more affordable era for existing and new cyclists.

Stylish with plenty of room

MENTION a new car is 87mm wider, has a wheelbase increased by 95mm but overall is 2mm shorter than the model it replaces yet there's bags more room inside and most punters will be left confused and perhaps unable to comprehend what's going on.

The answer is to sit inside the all-new SEAT Ibiza supermini and the penny will drop.

However, UK motorists will have to wait until July to find out for themselves as that's when the fifth generation Ibiza arrives.

But most people will be impressed because the new five-door Ibiza – the three-door and ST estate versions have been dropped from the range – is the roomiest in the supermini class and along with its stylish looks and vastly improved interior furnishings and fittings it sets new levels for a car in this class.

Much of the extra space is due to the car's new platform – it's called the MQB A0 and SEAT is the first to use it in the Volkswagen Group – and with a body that is 30 per cent stronger, the latest Ibiza has a far more solid feel about it out on the road.

SEAT is lucky in being part of the Volkswagen empire since it can let its parents do all the engineering and technical homework on engines, chassis and the like and then cream off what it wants.

That allows the SEAT designers to come up with attractive looks and smarter interior layouts for their own brand of cars.

A simple solution of course and one that has paid big dividends for the Spanish car maker, originally regarded as a lame duck when VW took it over back in 1986.

CLASSY: The new SEAT Ibiza supermini

Last year SEAT posted its best ever sales figures and Britain overtook Spain and Germany as the biggest selling country for the brand.

The sales surge is continuing and in April SEAT became the fastest growing marque in the UK with year on year sales up 12 per cent.

With 3,926 registrations in the bag during the month it outpaced the likes of Honda and even MINI.

Relying on VW powertrains the new Ibiza has the 'in-house' three-cylinder 1.0-litre turbocharged petrol engine with a choice of 74, 94 or 114bhp outputs plus a new 1.5-litre petrol engine offering 148bhp which appears in the 'go-faster' FR model.

That version will naturally appeal to the younger brigade, particularly as SEAT says there are no plans for a sports Cupra edition in the new Ibiza range.

Most of the new line-up has a five-speed manual gearbox, although the quicker versions do have a six-speed transmission, while the trim levels remain much as in the current SEAT model ranges, starting with the S, then SE, then the SE Technology with a choice of 74 or 94bhp followed by the more sporty FR trio and a pair of the top spec XCELLENCE models.

With the new engines and the new chassis the quality and refinement of the drive and ride are far better than on previous generations.

SEAT bosses expect the SE Technology model with the 1.0-litre 94bhp engine under the bonnet and coming in at £15,255 to be the linchpin in the new range – and it's easy to see why because it has the ideal combination for most drivers in terms of performance and satisfaction.

It clocks in with an acceleration of 0 to 62mph of 10.9 seconds, combined fuel consumption of 60.1mpg, CO2 of 106g/km, sits in VED Band E, insurance group 11 and with a BiK rating of 20 per cent.

It's also exceptionally well equipped sitting on 15-inch alloy wheels and comes with LED daytime running lights, leather steering wheel, split fold rear seat (boot space is up to 355 litres on this new model), a five-inch colour touch infotainment screen, steering wheel mounted controls and plenty more.

For a driver looking for a cheaper option then the entry-level 1.0-litre 74bhp Ibiza S at £13,130 is a decent enough buy.

Naturally the 94bhp engine has the edge on the 74bhp engine in terms of extra performance but both are quiet and refined out on the road.

Obviously, the sporty new 1.5-litre 148bhp engine will appeal more to the enthusiastic driver and again with the six-speed gear change it gives a stronger performance, including competence when driven hard round twisty, country up and down roads.

The Ibiza FR (also available with the 1.0-litre 94bhp and 114bhp engines and a DSG auto box) sits on better gripping 17-inch alloy wheels, has sports suspension plus, on the auto models, steering wheel mounted gearshift paddles. It also has a few more extras as standard inside with an eight-inch touch screen media system.

Top of the range is the XCELLENCE with the 94bhp output 1.0-litre engine and comes in at £17,310.

The new Ibiza not only looks more classy but with that new chassis and those excellent performing VW 1.0-litre engines it drives and behaves much, much better than ever before. It's come a long way from Mr Giugiaro's original 30 odd years back.

Monaco dash is worth it for Sims

ALEXANDER Sims made a hasty return from the streets of Monaco to claim a top-10 finish at the Three Hours of Silverstone, the second round of the Blancpain Endurance Series.

Sims had been standing in as a reserve driver for the Andretti team for Saturday's Formula E ePrix in Monaco in case the injured Robert Frijns was unable to take part.

But with Rowe Racing BMW driver Jens Klingmann unable to race at Silverstone, the West Wratting driver was brought in as a late replacement and did a steady job behind the wheel of his BMW M6, bringing the car home seventh.

Having qualified 32nd, Sims' performance capped an impressive comeback drive from the whole team.

The #63 Grasser Racing Team Lamborghini won, followed by the #84 Mercedes in second and the #90 Mercedes in third.

Sims, 29, said: "I'm very pleased to be here at Silverstone, it's quite an easy track for me to jump into and just drive.

"I know it very well and, having driven the M6 here last year, it wasn't too much of an issue to jump into and go."

Sims' co-driver Philipp Eng took the first stint and charged through the field to 13th place, aided in part by two safety-car periods.

Maxim Martin continued the good work in the #99 car and got up to sixth, albeit 10 seconds behind the top five.

Sims took over after the second and final pit-stop still sixth but with too much of a gap to overhaul the fifth-placed #8 Bentley Continental of Vince Abril, Andy Soucek and Maxime Soulet.

He then lost sixth to the #50 Ferrari of Michele Rugolo two laps from the finish as he began to struggle on his tyres.

"Ultimately we've got to be happy with that comeback from outside the top 30 to inside the top 10," said Sims.

"It was a shame to lose sixth place two laps from the end, but we had a bit of a drop in the tyres and we couldn't hold on to the pace we had earlier in the stint.

"The Ferrari was just stonkingly fast. It was really doing some good lap times and I couldn't keep it behind.

"We had a perfectly clean race which is good, and it's always nice to know you maximised everything you had."

Cricket

It's Taylor-made

HALF-CENTURIES from Andy Brightmore and Adam Taylor set Weston Colville on their way to a 117-run triumph over Foxton II in CCA Senior League, Division One.

The former struck 57 and the latter did even better with 73 to get the hosts up to 240 for 7 from their 45 overs.

Matt Daniels then collected 4 for 27 to skittle the visitors for 123.

"We put a good score on the board and then our opening bowlers did the job, going through their top and middle order," said Weston Colville captain Craig Williams.

"It was a nice feeling to win with the whole team working."

Ollie Sellers tore Horseheath apart and guided Wilburton to a convincing eight-wicket win in Division Three.

He took 7 for 28 and had support from Marcus Brook (3 for 34) as their opponents were bundled out for 65.

Wilburton eased to 66 for 2 in 17 overs.

Tennis

Courts open for fun day

MORE than 50 people of all ages joined in as Haverhill staged an open day as part of the Lawn Tennis Association Great British Tennis Weekend Campaign.

Focusing on families, the event began with an introductory 'mini' tennis class for children 3 to 10 years old. With smaller courts, nets and rackets and lower bouncing balls, LTA Mini Tennis offers the perfect introduction to the sport, with all the fun and energy of the real thing.

Adults and juniors were then put through their paces in a session of Cardio

Tennis, a fun, sociable group fitness class set on a tennis court and open to people of all ages and abilities.

Supported by motivating music and qualified instructors, it's a great cardio work-out while hitting lots of tennis balls.

The rest of the day was devoted to free play and family time. Modified balls and rackets were provided for the younger players, while Rob Jeffs and his team of coaches, as well as club members, were on hand to provide coaching and give advice to all the participants.

"A great day," said a club spokesman.

"It was wonderful to see so many adults and children enjoying tennis in the sunshine. We hope they've been inspired to continue."

■ The Haverhill club is participating in the Suffolk Schools Roadshow on Sunday, which is focused on attracting very young players to the sport. It will end with a tennis open afternoon (1pm-2.30pm and 3.30pm-5pm) for children aged three to 10 and their parents.

There is no need to book and all equipment is provided.
